National Democratic Convention.

The national democratic committee having met in the city of Washington on the 22d day of February, 1888, has appointed Tuesday, the 5th day of June next at noon as the time chosen and the city of St Louis as the place of holding the national demo-

Each state is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of its senators and representatives in the congress of the United States. The Democrats of each organized territory and the District of Columbia are invited to send two delegates, subject to the decision of the convention as to their admission. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for a pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join in sending delegates to the convention.

WILLIAM H. BARNUM. FREDERICK O. PIERCE, Secretary.

LAURA JONES, the Georgia girl who has invented a new plow and corn planter, is said to be a cousin of Lulu Hurst, the famous electric girl. Georgia girls seem to be determined to surprise the world.

THE inventor who is just now trying to introduce a locomotive capable of running one hundred miles and hour, should be hunted down and placed under a guard. What with crooked roads and wooden bridges, thirty miles an hour is about as fast the as the average American cares to

THE Harvard boys have been holding a presidential election of their own. Ballotboxes were placed in Memorial hall and a total of 901 votes were taken, cast as follows for first choice: Cleveland, 413; Blaine, 251; Sherman, 48; Depew, 46; Edmunds, 25; Lincoln, 21; Gresham, 19; Hawley, 15; Allison, 14; Carlisle, 6; C. B. Fisk, 5; scattering, 36. Now let us hear from old Yale.

The man who puts a $10 advertisement in his paper, flattering himself that he is a liberal advertiser, will be surprised to arn that a yearly advertise column in length in the Chicago Tribune costs the advertiser $26,000. The New York Herald receives for its lowest column $36,420, and for the highest $348,000, and the Century magazine receives $600 for s page of advertising for one issue.

THEY do not lynch murderers and thieves in Mexico now, but treat them to justice in a more romantic though no less fatal manner. A dispatch from Durango, referring to the murder of a wealthy planter at his hacienda by a band of seven robbers, says: "Soon after the killing a lot soldiers and police were on the ground. Several of the robbers were known, and soon seven were in the hands of the authorities, and the party started for the judge of the town of jurisdiction. As ordinary trials are long, cost money, and are not always either profitable or satisfactory, the seven prisoners were introduced to the short way to justice by the 'ley de fuego,' that is, they were allowed to try to escape, and in this effort for freedom were all shot dead."

As FAR as the party can be regarded as bound by the action of a conference, as distinct from a caucus, the republican representatives in the house have formally decided to decline to accept Mr Mills's proposition to dispense with the consideration of the tariff bill under the five-minute rule. The democratic members of the ways and means committee are hard at work upon the amendments proposed by the democrats, endeavoring to dispose of them before the end of the week, so that the house can enter upon the the consideration of the bill for amendment next week. The republicans are confident that they will be able to agree upon a substitute for the Mills bill, and the conference has already outlined several of the leading points of the measure; but it is their present plan to allow the consideration of the pending bill to run along under the five-minute rule for some time, in order to fully disclose in the debate the sentiments of all the members of the party.

THE address on the tariff by the Hon Thomas H. Dudley, at music hall las evening, was a most insipid attempt at an argument for protection. The speaker waded into a subject with which he evidently was not familiar, or else like many others he failed to see any benefits to be derived from protection, and only argued for it because as a republican he felt it his duty to do so. His attempt to score a point was a lamentable failure, his alleged arguments being a stale rehash of what we have heard over and over again. The fact that he did not roundly abuse President Cleveland was about the only bit of originality in the address, although of course in this he disappointed many of his hearers. In speaking of the prosperity of the country Mr Dudley unconsciously scored a point for the democratic party to whose careful and economical administration the prosperity is due. Taken all in all the address was a good piece of campaign work, from a ring a diamend democratic standpoint.

An interesting development in photography is in the use of clockwork in printing from is in the use of clockwork in printing from negatives. By this means a continuous web of sensitived paper is drawn as suitable intervals under a negative exposed to a source of light. After printing the paper is drawn, still by the mechanism, through "washer," "toner" and "fixer," successively, and appears finally as a series of finished pictures ready for mounting, and all alibe in exposure, other and tone. THE REPUBLICAN QUESTION.

CLEVELAND AND BLAINE.

What Possible Show Has the Man from

A remarkable change has just occurred in the political field. About a mouth ago there was great popular uncertainty as to who the Republican candidate for pres-ident would be, and a few Democratic editors were still booming a favorite son Judge H. E. Packer, of Mauch Chunk, Pa., has in his dining room a sideboard which cost $47,000. It covers the whole side of a room and is a model of elaborate and beautiful are practically unanimous in the opinion are practically unanimous in the opinion that the candidates will be the same as in Yale's new college library building, the gift of R. B. Chittenden, of Brooklyn, will be the job over to us, to be fixed at will, the largest in the country, and probably the finest. It will cost $125,000 and be ready for Democratic victory had before been doubt-Democratic victory had before been doubtful, this would remove the last doubt. Every element of the existing situation is more favorable to Cleveland and hostile to Blaine than to any other men in their respective parties. If we cannot best Blaine clear out of sight, the Democrats should never again presume to call themselves patriots or men of sense.

Look at the facts. Every bit of dirt that could be raked for the purpose was thrown at Cleveland in 1884, and did not suffice; not an atom of it can be used again. The people have passed on it, and in a social light he has gained strength every day since he was elected. The independent vote of the country is satisfied with him. The Republicans make a great outcry about removals from office, and a few Democrats complain that there have not been removals enough; the sensible men who do not want office very naturally conclude that when a man is condemned by both extremes he is about right. We want to ask any intelligent Republican this question: Do you believe that the personal charges against Cleveland, that admittedly had some effect in 1884, will have any effect whatever in 1888; and can unst blaine, which were but barely started in 1884, will come to full force and effect in 1888? Do you not in your secret soul suspect that those dark charges and counter charges, which were then thought so black that most men only hinted at them, will prove far worse for Mr. Blaine when they begin the campaign instead of

There are several other little points our Republican friends overlook. In 1884 they had at their command a compact phalanx of 100,000 office holders-where is that phalanx now? Then they were able ger to the business interests," but a Clothing Company, Democratic president was elected and the business interests are confessedly in better shape than in 1884.

The people's verdict will be a vote for Cleveland that will bury Jim Blaine beyond the hope of political resurrection.

A Model Nomination.

Now we have a Republican nomination worthy of the present condition and aims of the Republican party. The Republican convention of the state of Kansas has instructed its delegates to secure the nomi-nation by the national convention at Chicago of John James Ingalls to be pres-ident of the United States. Blaine is feebly mentioned as a second choice and last resort, but it is to Ingalls, the de famer of McClellan and Hancock, the apologist for his own outrages on the sacred memories of our most gallant dead, that the heart of the Kansas Republican

They admire, nay, worship Ingalls. He embodies what they long for—profitable control of public affairs, in the time of profound peace, in the hands of men who haver fought, but who desire to live on the memories of war. What a vision this nomination opens to the eyes of hungry Republican adventurers! What dreams hundred church members within the walls of Peking connected with the five Protestant missions in that city.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States last year recommended $500,000 for home missions. The receipts, The Interior says, foot up to within anticipations of harrowing Kuklux tales of outrages without number, and all those exciting fictions that carpet bag freebooters spread to gull the people while they serenely line their pockets! With Ingalls for president we would not have to wait a whole week after a Louisiana election for one feeble story of a little outrage to fire the northern heart. Bloody would be our pelities in the pages of the Republi-can press, and thunder would be in the air all the year round, whenever the news

But, if these Kansas followers of the jayhawer judge advecate cannot have their own chief for president, next to him they call for Blaine; and this is one of several things that have recently happened that seem to us to be very bad indeed for Mr. Blaine.—New York Star.

Democracy Caunet Lose. We are fighting the last campaign on the old sectional lines. The Democracy stends for Union and the future. Republicanism represents a worse disunion and division than that of open and honorable warfare. In such a cause Democracy cannot lose.—St. Louis Republican.

Getting Weaker Day by Day. It begins to look as if the Sherman boom, if it is well enough to go at all, would have to be carried to the Chicago convention on a litter.—Chicago Herald.

We Must Have It. We believe that Democratic success in 1888 is necessary to the wellbeing of the country.—Atlanta Constitution.
